SCHOOL BOARD AT MEETING PLANS FOR SCHOOL OPENING

Sanitary Committee to Investigate the Water Situation — Teacher Vacancies Are Filled for the Year.

The City Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting at the High School building Tuesday evening to arrange for the opening of the city schools on next Tuesday and to attend the usual business coming before that body each month.

Four new teachers were elected by the board to fill vacancies in the teaching force. Miss Carrie Goodwin, a graduate of the Maysville High School, was elected to teach the third grade and Miss Addie Hord Arnold, also a graduate of the Maysville High School, was elected to teach the seventh grade.

Two colored teachers were also elected. Miss Tina Isabel Ashe, of Cincinnati, a graduate of the Sabina, Ohio, High School and Wilberforce College, and Mrs. M. J. Patton, were the two colored teachers elected.

The matter of furnishing the students of the public schools with pure water was discussed at length and finally left to the Sanitation committee for further investigation. It is more than likely that filters will be installed in the school buildings to protect the children from impure water while attending school.

Prof. W. P. King, of Newport, who is instructor at the County Teachers' Institute, attended the meeting and addressed the board on Visual Education. He presented a system of teaching the child through the eye by means of pictures that is growing rapidly in favor throughout the nation. No action was taken in the matter of adopting the system for the Maysville schools.

BASEBALL SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, AT LEAGUE PARK.

The R. J. R. Specials will play the Covington Tigers Sunday at League Park. The Tigers have a fast team, having won 22 games and lost six this season. They have beaten some of the fastest teams around Cincinnati and are expecting to take the R. J. R. out of the Specials; but in return the Specials are playing a good game as they defeated the Owingsville Giants Sunday by the score of 8 to 3, and have a season average of .800. The Tigers are bringing 300 rooters with them. Game called at 1:30.

APPEAL IS MADE FOR CARLISLE FLOOD SUFFERERS

Donations To Be Made Throughout the State for Relief of Flood Victims at Carlisle.

Carlisle, Ky., Sept. 1.—A meeting of citizens of this city, under the auspices of the Nicholas County Red Cross Chapter, was held at the Masonic Temple here, at which a committee was appointed to solicit funds for the relief of those who suffered losses as a result of the flood here Friday night. At the meeting an appeal for funds were made and funds received from any place will be greatly appreciated. About $1,500 was raised. Dave Jackson, grand secretary of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Kentucky, Louisville, was one of the contributors.

The situation in the section of the city along Brushy Fork Creek presents a very distressing sight. The water was many feet deep in seventy-five dwelling houses, and as a result furniture, clothing, foodstuffs, beds and bedding are practically ruined. Numbers of families lost practically all they had.

Contributions will be received by W. F. Tunc, secretary for the Red Cross.

ILL IN LEXINGTON HOSPITAL.

Chief of Police Harry A. Ort received a letter this morning from Robert Jackson of Lexington asking that Jane and "Web" Jackson, of this city, be advised that their brother, Dan Jackson, is now at the point of death at St. Joseph's hospital in Lexington. Chief Ort could not locate the local people and asks that they be advised of this information through the press.

PROPOSED LABOR DAY CELEBRATION FALLS THROUGH.

The proposed celebration for Labor Day here on next Monday seems to have fallen through because of a lack of interest on the part of local labor organizations. At a meeting called for last night to discuss plans all of the unions were invited and none were represented but the bricklayers and the painters. No action was taken and the Chamber of Commerce has dropped the matter.

MAJOR RUSSELL ISSUES PROCLAMATION FOR LABOR DAY

Major Calls on All Citizens to Celebrate Next Monday As a Labor Day Holiday — Everyone to Observe It.

Although proposed plans for a big Labor Day celebration here on next Monday have been dropped because of a lack of interest on the part of local labor organizations, the day will be generally observed as a holiday. Practically all industry will stop where union labor is being employed and many of the business houses will close for the afternoon at least.

In accordance with the usage in former years, Mayor T. M. Russell today issued a Labor Day Proclamation asking all citizens to observe the day as a holiday. His proclamation follows:

To the People of Maysville:
"Maysville has always been a laboring community but within the past two years the labor of Maysville has been coming into its own through organization by means of which the laboring men have been able to better their own conditions and at the same time render better and more satisfactory service to their employers."

"Maysville is now blessed with several strong labor organizations, all of which are doing their part in helping to improve the city in every possible manner. They have been great benefits and never yet has there been the least friction, so cordial are the relations between capital and labor in Maysville.

"Monday, September 6th, has been set apart by Hon. Woodrow Wilson, President of our great nation, and Hon. Edwin P. Morrow, Chief Executive of our grand old Commonwealth, as Labor's own day.

"Therefore, I, Thomas M. Russell, Mayor of the City of Maysville, Kentucky, call upon all Maysvillians to celebrate Monday, September 6th, 1920, as a holiday to Labor and in honor of the honest and stalwart laboring men of our city, state and nation.

"Witness my hand and the seal of the City of Maysville, Kentucky, this September 1st, 1920.

TANGLE THINGS UP DOWN IN TENNESSEE

Action of Tennessee House Causes Quite a Tangle In the Affairs Of Suffrage.

Nashville, Tenn., August 31.—The Tennessee House of Representatives, with a quorum present for the first time since August 20, expunged from its journal today all record of ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment, and voted 47 to 24, with 20 not voting, to nonconcur in the action of the Senate in ratifying the amendment.

Governor A. H. Roberts, upon being notified of the House's action, declined to make any statement other than to say that the situation could be dealt with only in a legal manner and was in the hands of Attorney-General Frank H. Thompson, who in a letter to the House, expressed the opinion that reconsideration of the resolution of ratification was impossible, since the House already had adopted it and Governor Robert had certified to Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State, this action by both House and Senate.

State officials and many members of the Legislature expressed the belief that the House's action would be decided upon the record certified to Washington by Governor Roberts and was in the hands of Attorney-General Thompson.

A HEFTY TRINITY.

"Mr. Lodge has been in public life for 40 years, serving in the State legislature, the United States House of Representatives and the United States Senate. After he had served the people of his state for 37 years, he was reelected to the United States Senate by a plurality of 33,000 over Fitzgerald, one of the cleverest politicians in the Democratic party. In the same year Hughes carried Massachusetts by 20,000. After 37 years of intimate knowledge of his life and work the people of his state voiced their 'well done, good and faithful servant.' Lodge was for years a close personal friend and confidant of the late Colonel Roosevelt."

"Mr. Root has been in public life for 37 years holding legal and legislative positions in state and nation too numerous to itemize. He retired from the Senate of his own volition. He was Secretary of War in the McKinley cabinet and Secretary of State in the Roosevelt cabinet; members of numerous international tribunals and recipient of national and international honors unsurpassed."

"These three men, Penrose, Lodge and Root have been lifelong members of the Republican party and there has never been a word of criticism of their absolute fidelity. They have been repeatedly honored with seats in National conventions by virtue of authority from their constituents. Penrose and Lodge were duly elected delegates to the recent convention but Root was not, as he was abroad. As a matter of fact, these three men did not determine the nomination of Harding, but, if they had, what of it? Is there any question of their patriotism, any question of their soundness of judgment, any question of their loyalty to the party, any question of their right to participate fully in any convention to which they are elected?"

RIVER NEGLECT CITED AS CAUSE OF TRANSPORTATION TIE-UP

Monongahela is an Example of What the Development of Waterways Would Mean.

Washington. — Indifference on the part of the federal government, likewise the business interests of the country, to development of the nation's waterways is one of the chief causes for present paralysis of transportation facilities of the United States.

Officials who have given serious thought to utilization of rivers insist that if they were functioning as they should be there would be no embargoes on freight no accumulation of crops on farms in west and southwest, no frozen credits, and no inability to obtain cars to move essential products. They are urging a wake-up policy which, if adopted, would hasten improvement of the Ohio River, with consequent profit to Cincinnati.

The fact that tremendous industries around Pittsburgh are not tied up for lack of coal is cited as proof of the value of improved waterways. There the Monongahela River is being utilized.

During the war this stream kept the vast steel plants around Pittsburgh going. Had it not been for the Monongahela River making possible movement of great barges of coal the supply of steel and munitions for America and the allies would have been cut materially. These are waterways enthusiasts who claim the Monongahela won the war, and chief among them is S. A. Thompson Secretary of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Year in and year out Thompson has been preaching to congressional committees the need of developing waterways, but inland politicians and interests, not concerned with rivers and harbors have cried "pork."

The result is that waterways improvement has become a sort of joke.

Thompson says 21,000,000 tons of traffic will be handled on the Monongahela River this year. Since 1845 a total of 350,000,000 tons have been handled on this stream. The total sum the government has spent for its improvement and maintenance has been $8,220,000, or only 3.29 cents for each ton of traffic.

"If the Mississippi and the Ohio, the Missouri and many of our other rivers were giving such accounts of themselves," he said, "there would be no such thing as freight embargoes and the nation would not be facing a coal shortage."

Time was when the Mississippi and the Ohio hauled millions of tons of coal annually, but no more.

Aside from this, if the rivers were being utilized there would be no occasion for such high freight rates."

Cyrus E. Dallin, who has been selected to design the Pilgrim half dollars to be issued in commemoration of the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims, is one of the most distinctively national sculptors that the United States has produced. The more conventional of the output of his art is to be found in his figures in the Library of Congress and in his designs for soldiers' monuments at Syracuse, N. Y., and Hanover, Pa. His most enduring and strikingly individual contribution to his people's art will prove to be statues like "The Medicine man," in Fairmont Park, Philadelphia; "The Appeal to the Great Spirit" in Boston, and "The Indian Hunter," in Arlington, Mass. COX STANDS FOR GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

Washington, Aug. 31.—That Government ownership of public utilities has Cox's sanction is asserted by the Republican Publicity Association through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., in the following statement issued today:

"Let the Government do it is not one of the policies of Warren G. Harding, the Republican nominee for the presidency. In that respect he differs from the gentlemen who have been in control of the Democratic party.

"In his speech of acceptance Senator Harding declared his opposition to Government ownership of railways. Discussing economic problems he declared that, 'When competition—natural, fair, impelling competition—is suppressed whether by law, compact, or conspiracy, we halt the march of progress, silence the voice of inspiration, and paralyze the will for achievement,' thus indicating his confidence in individual effort as the secret of progress.

"Speaking of profiteering he asserted the Republican purpose to prevent unreasonable profits and to challenge profiteering with all the moral force and the legal powers of the Government. But he reminded the people of the country that law is not the sole corrective of our economic ills. Said he,

"Let us call to all the people for thrift and economy, for denial and sacrifice, if need be, for a nation-wide drive against extravagance and luxury, to a recommitment to simplicity of living, to that prudent and normal plan of life which is the health of the Republic."

"The Harding policy is one of giving the individual citizen the widest possible opportunity for accomplishment, with the encouragement rather than the interference of the Government, except so far as necessary to protect the rights of all against the selfishness of a few. He recognizes the fact that increased production must be the result of individual effort and not of governmental activity.

"In the platform on which the Democratic party came into power in 1913, there was a declaration in favor of the full exercise by the states of their reserved sovereign powers and denouncing the enlargement by indirection of the powers of the Federal Government. But from the very day the Wilson administration began, there was constant endeavor to increase the powers of the Federal Government over every branch of industry and enterprise, until today scarcely any man in the United States engaged in any undertaking can feel free from the restraining and menacing hand of some Federal official agent. Let the Government do it has been the Wilson policy, and Wilsonism has been endorsed by the Democratic National Convention in a platform upon which Mr. Cox declared he squarely stands. The perpetuation of Democratic policies through the election of Mr. Cox will mean the continued extension of the policy of Federal interference with the jurisdiction of the states and Federal limitation of individual enterprise and activity.

"It will be remembered that Mr. Cox has expressly declared his advocacy of Government ownership of all public utilities except agriculture. While it will be the effort of his campaign managers to ignore or deprecate this aspect of policy, yet it will be apparent to the voters of the country that such is the Cox conception of the proper prerogatives of the Government, and that, so far as it lies in his power, he will extend the authority of the Federal Government with its attendant increased cost of operation, decreased efficiency, and discouragement of individual enterprise. Mr. Cox would entangle in the endless mazes of red tape almost every line of industry. Mr. Harding would set business free under a 'natural, fair, impelling competition' in order to encourage a joining of hand and brain in production, more production, honest production, patriotic production.' The Cox program will be to let everybody else suit and let the Government do it."

"Let the Government do it is not one of the policies of Warren G. Harding, the Republican nominee for the presidency. In that respect he differs from the gentlemen who have been in control of the Democratic party.

"In his speech of acceptance Senator Harding declared his opposition to Government ownership of railways. "The Harding policy is one of giving the individual citizen the widest possible opportunity for accomplishment, with the encouragement rather than the interference of the Government, except so far as necessary to protect the rights of all against the selfishness of a few. He recognizes the fact that increased production must be the result of individual effort and not of governmental activity.

"In the platform on which the Democratic party came into power in 1913, there was a declaration in favor of the full exercise by the states of their reserved sovereign powers and denouncing the enlargement by indirection of the powers of the Federal Government. But from the very day the Wilson administration began, there was constant endeavor to increase the powers of the Federal Government over every branch of industry and enterprise, until today scarcely any man in the United States engaged in any undertaking can feel free from the restraining and menacing hand of some Federal official agent. Let the Government do it has been the Wilson policy, and Wilsonism has been endorsed by the Democratic National Convention in a platform upon which Mr. Cox declared he squarely stands. The perpetuation of Democratic policies through the election of Mr. Cox will mean the continued extension of the policy of Federal interference with the jurisdiction of the states and Federal limitation of individual enterprise and activity.

"It will be remembered that Mr. Cox has expressly declared his advocacy of Government ownership of all public utilities except agriculture. While it will be the effort of his campaign managers to ignore or deprecate this aspect of policy, yet it will be apparent to the voters of the country that such is the Cox conception of the proper prerogatives of the Government, and that, so far as it lies in his power, he will extend the authority of the Federal Government with its attendant increased cost of operation, decreased efficiency, and discouragement of individual enterprise. MOTHERS INQUIRE FOR MISSING DAUGHTERS.

Ashland, Ky., Sept. 1.—Though the body of Lucy Marlow Horton of Winchester has been buried, anxious mothers, who have missing daughters, still inquire about her.

Twenty or more mothers visited the morgue where the body of the pretty girl, who took her own life, was kept for a week before it was identified through an anonymous letter.

Love affairs were blamed by the mothers for disappearance of many girls. Mothers came from four states to view the body.

MOTHER GAVE IT

Virginia Lady Suffered With Aches and Pains Until Mother Began Giving Her Cardui.

Dublin, Va.—Miss Mary Alice Huggett residing on Route 2, near here, recently told a visitor of her interesting experience with Cardui. Miss Huggett said: "I had been suffering for some time with painful... I was pale, didn't feel like going. Would just drag around, and couldn't rest to do any good. I would suffer once a month with my back, sides and head. My limbs would ache and I didn't know what to do, but I knew I must do something, for I didn't get well by letting it run on."

"My mother is a believer in Cardui, for she saw what it did for others as well as herself, so she began giving it to me."

"It wasn't long before I saw a change. It was just what I needed. It regulated me. I began to eat and sleep, and the pain stopped."

"Cardui is without doubt the best female tonic made, and I am glad I can recommend it to others."

If suffering with symptoms such as Miss Huggett mentions, or other ailments peculiar to women, why not try Cardui? Your druggist sells it.

STATE DIRECTOR OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION SPEAKS AT INSTITUTE

Mason County Teachers Get Pointers On Physical Education, a New Study That All Kentucky Schools Must Teach This Year.

(By Prof. R. Y. MAXEY.)
Supt. Turnipseed opened the morning session with official announcements.

Instructor King then began his day's work with a very appropriate subject, "Clean-Up Day." In the course of his remarks Mr. King stated that every school house should be made an attractive and as nearly like a well kept house as possible, that it is the business of the teacher to inaugurate every movement that looks to the welfare of community life.

In his talk under the head of "Recreation and Play" Mr. King asserted that it was the job of the teacher to bring together the poor and shabbily dressed and the well-dressed and cultured children in organized play.

Following a short intermission J. W. Carr, State Physical Director, made a most helpful talk, explaining and illustrating the course in physical education to be taught in the public schools of the state. This is one of the new and additional subjects prescribed by the 1920 legislature.

Instructor King discussed in forceful manner the new attendance law, showing how teachers can best bring about desired results.

Mr. King will deliver an address on "The New Citizenship" at the Third Street M. E. church this evening at 7:30. Mr. Carson Taylor, of Louisville, will sing. No admission will be charged. The public cordially invited.

Tuesday afternoon Dr. Locke, former County Health Officer, was shaking hand with friends in the Institute and following the few minutes recess made a highly appreciated talk.

Dr. Locke is now connected with the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association and a member of the State Board of Health.

COAL OPERATORS SUE TO TEST RULE OF COMMISSION

Kentucky Coal Operators Seek Relief From Alleged Coal Shortage—L. & N. Is Defendant.

Seventy-five coal operators in Eastern Kentucky, through their attorneys, Harris Coleman and N. R. Patterson, yesterday filed suit in the United States District Court at Covington asking relief from an alleged car shortage, which, they say, is caused by the act of the L. & N. Railroad Company in complying with regulations made by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Attaches of the United States Court in Covington said yesterday that they believe it is the first suit filed in the country to test the legality of the Esch-Cummins Act, passed by Congress on February 28, 1920.

In the petition the coal operators, headed by the Arcadia Coal Company, attack Paragraph 4 of Service Order No. 9, issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission on July 13, 1920. It is alleged that the order discriminates among the operators by giving car priority to those operators who furnish coal to public utilities, such as schools, hospitals, heating and lighting plants and others.

According to the petition, there are 101 operators owning mines in Bell, Knox and Harlan counties, Kentucky, and only twenty-six of these are now being furnished with care by the L. & N. Railroad Company because of alleged shipments to public utilities. The remaining seventy-five claim to be unable to carry out their contracts because of this discrimination.

Service Order No. 12, issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission on August 10, and continuing the validity of Service Orders Nos. 7 and 9 for ninety days, from June 21, is also attacked. The operators declare that the emergency period for which these orders were issued is now passed and that their further continuance is illegal.

If the "unjust provisions" of these orders are not rescinded the operators say that many of them will be compelled to shut down their mines. According to Clerk Menzies of the United States District Court at Covington, the case will be heard before Judge A. M. J. Cochran and two other Federal Judges in Cincinnati at a date to be determined later.

Mary Pickford, the famous screen actress, is said to receive an average of 15,000 letters a week.
